HAZEL EDWARDS OAM

BIOGRAPHICAL PROFILE

Hazel Edwards OAM is a Melbourne writer of over 220 works of fiction and non-fiction for children, young adults and adults in multi-media, e.g. books, audio books, e-books, plays, short stories, musicals, radio, television, newspapers, journals, and performance scripts.

She was a primary and tertiary teacher and had published several readers in 1976 and 1977 through MacMillan Publishing. Her major breakthrough was in 1977 when her first novel General store was published. This was followed up in 1980 with the publication of her first picture book, There's a hippopotamus on our roof eating cake. The success of this book has resulted in six more hippo books, one junior novel, play scripts, a musical and a short film, all based on the hippo stories.

Central to many of Hazel's stories is a sense of social justice, fairness and accessibility that has resulted in some of her stories being published in other formats, e.g. in Auslan, Braille and dyslexic font. Where she has perceived a need to educate, a story or play has been written. Various educational organisations, such as The Children's Court of Victoria, approached her to write for them, e.g. Just in case you visit the Children's Court. Inspiration has also come from community events, e.g. Honey the hospital dog. She contributed five stories to the Visual Storytelling Resources Project developed by the Victorian College for the Deaf in the mid 2000s. Her stories and plays often centre on being different, e.g. socially, culturally, physically, sexually and emotionally, and how these differences can lead to acceptance, e.g. The Wheelie wonder about a boy born without feet. She often presents complex concepts so children can understand and problem solve, but underlying this is a sense of fun. It's important to Hazel that children use their imagination and develop a love of reading. Writing numerous scripts for plays for use in classrooms develops an involvement in literature beyond simple reading. In the 1980s and 1990s she developed the Corridor of Characters initiative. Letters written by young readers addressed to actual characters from her books (especially the hippo books) were replied to by those characters, courtesy of the author. This is another example of Hazel's eagerness to engage her young readers.

Hazel does not just write her stories in isolation. She shares her thoughts and writing processes with others through newspaper, journal and magazine articles, workshops, writer-in-residences (e.g. Mt Newman mining community in outback WA), her website, teachers' notes and speaking nationally and internationally (author ambassador to Youfu West Street International School, Nanjing, China).

Hazel's books have been published in Korean, Chinese, Finnish, Polish, Japanese, Russian, German, Tamil and Spanish, as well as appearing in Canadian and United States editions. She has achieved numerous personal awards. In 2001 she was awarded an Australian Antarctic Division Fellowship, which meant that she was the Writer on Ice at Casey Base. This very special award resulted in the publication of a range of Antarctic themed fiction and non-fiction stories. She was nominated for three consecutive years (2010, 2011 & 2012) for the Astrid Lingren Memorial Award for outstanding contribution to children's and young adult literature by the Swedish Arts Council. In 2013 she was awarded an OAM (Order of Australia) medal for services to literature. Most recently, in 2022, she was given the award of a Distinguished Alumni for Education at Monash University.

HAZEL EDWARDS OAM PAPERS

SCOPE AND CONTENT

Hazel Edwards' OAM donation, to the National Centre for Australian Children's Literature Inc, of papers relating to many of her works for young people and adults spans the years from the early 1970s to 2013.

The size of this collection is twelve standard archival boxes and one oversize flat archival box. The oversize box includes proofs, artworks, covers, a galley and posters. The collection includes papers relating to picture books (including her first, There's a hippopotamus on our roof eating cake), junior fiction and junior non-fiction books, young adult books (including her first novel, General Store), selected adult books, short stories, play scripts, DVDs, TV series, two musicals and other general papers.

The papers and manuscripts have been organised chronologically from oldest to most recent within categories. There are numerous manuscripts, including many drafts and rewrites. The papers also include correspondence with publishers and editors. There are many newspaper articles and reviews as well as promotional materials. Of the many play scripts included in this collection, some are in published compilations for use by teachers and some have been written specifically for commercial performances, e.g. Hip hip hippo. During the 1970s and 1980s, the author wrote short stories and plays for the NSW and Victorian School Magazines and many of these are included in this collection.

There is a considerable amount of material relating to the Visual Storytelling Resources Project developed by the Victorian College for the Deaf in the mid 2000s. This project provided literary resources in AUSLAN for deaf children. Included in this collection are papers relating to five stories used in this project.

As a result of her experience as an Antarctic Arts Fellowship recipient in 2000-2001, the author created several works of fiction and non-fiction relating to Antarctica. Papers are included on four books: Antarctic Dad (picture book), Antarctic close-up (junior fiction), Antarctica's frozen chosen (young adult) and Antarctic writer on ice (adult). There are also papers on three Antarctic stories written for the Visual Storytelling Resources Project. These papers include manuscripts, correspondence, promotion material and many articles in newspapers, journals and magazines.

Another large body of papers relates to the Corridor of Characters initiative facilitated by the author in the 1980s and 1990s. This initiative involved letters from young readers to the actual characters in the author's books and the responses that came from those characters, via the author. These papers also include many articles about this initiative and selected papers for use in displays at book shops and an Expo at Dromkeen.

The depth of this collection gives a very clear insight into the background to, and the creativeness of, the writing process. It also shows communication processes between an author and a reader and the challenges of creating and publishing for children and young adults in both fiction and non-fiction formats. A very special part of this donation consisted of two very large stuffed hippos which have pride of place in the Centre. This collection also included several books which have remained with the papers except for a few titles that related to the National Centre for Australian Children's Literature Inc collection.
