LIBBY HATHORN PAPERS

SCOPE AND CONTENT

Libby Hathorn donated papers relating to many of her works to the National Centre for Australian Children's Literature Inc (NCACL) in September 2017 and March 2026. The collection spans the years from 1979 to 2025. The size of the collection is 16 standard archival boxes and 4 oversize flat archival boxes. The 4 oversize boxes (numbered 16 – 19) primarily include posters, storyboards, mock-ups, photocopies of artwork, page proofs and cover proofs.

The collection includes young adult novels, junior novels, picture books, short stories, poetry, radio programmes, movies, documentaries, operas, plays, CD ROMs and other general papers. This collection also includes papers relating to both published and unpublished works. There are numerous manuscripts, including drafts and rewrites. The papers also include correspondence with publishers, artists, editors, publicists, literary agents, government agencies, festival organisers and many other people and organisations. There are numerous newspaper articles and reviews as well as promotional materials and festival programmes. Some books, eg Georgina, woman of flowers, required extensive research by the author. Much of the research is included in this collection.

The enormity of this collection gives an insight into the writing process and the challenges of creating and publishing for young people in various formats. Libby did not restrict herself to publishing in Australia. She found it particularly challenging to publish Sangita's singing in Nepal and A Face in the water in India. The author wrote the libretto based on her book Sky sash so blue and this opera was performed at Midfield Elementary School in Alabama, USA.

This collection includes a few of the author's published books. These books can be found in the first folder of the papers relating to each specific book. The author's published works are also available in the Centre. The author arranged her papers chronologically by title within each genre and this order has been maintained. The genres equate to the series in this finding aid. Papers are listed under the final title of the book. All title changes that occurred in the writing/publishing process are indicated in the papers' descriptions.

The papers for A Soldier, a dog and a boy and Eventual poppy day are not included in this collection. At the request of the NSW State Library, after Phil Lesnie donated his illustrations, the author donated her papers relating to these two books, thus keeping the papers and illustrations together.

As part of the Cultural Gifts Program donation in 2017, the author donated a significant number of original framed and unframed artworks relating to her books. She also donated a portrait of herself. In 2026 her donation included more original unframed artwork. These artworks are all recorded as Libby Hathorn Donations and stored in the NCACL framed and unframed artwork collections.

An addendum to this finding aid describes additional papers donated in 2026 such as manuscripts, proofs, event programs, a workshop project, promotional material and correspondence. The addendum papers relate to both new works and works previously included in this finding aid. A significant number of papers relate to Incredible: the stage play.

By using one's computer search facility, all related material can be searched for and retrieved. The range of works published by the author shows Libby Hathorn's dedication to and her love of the written word.

LIBBY HATHORN BIOGRAPHICAL PROFILE

Libby Hathorn (a.k.a. Elizabeth Helen Hathorn) was born in 1943 in Newcastle, New South Wales. Writing (and reading) was something she enjoyed from a very early age. “I can’t remember a time in my life when I wasn’t “making” stories or poems for myself, my friends, my parents, or other members of the family.” [1]

She had a career in education in New South Wales as a teacher, librarian, deputy principal, consultant, senior education officer for NSW government adult education programmes, writer-in-residence and a part-time university lecturer in creative writing.

She married John Hathorn in 1968 and has two children, both of whom were born in the 1970s. She had been writing poetry as a young woman and ventured into writing textbooks with John’s assistance, in the late 1960s. Her interest in children’s books developed from her time as a primary school teacher and as her children grew this interest became a need to explore as a writer. Stephen’s Walk was her first published (1979) children’s book – a picture book. It was the first of over 80 books Libby has written for children and young people. She started writing full-time in 1981. She started slowly with, mostly, one book a year in the 1980s and was keen to explore different writing genres. During this time, she wrote her first “chapter book” for junior readers – Paolo’s Secret (1985), and her first young adult book – Thunderwith (1989).

By the 1990s and 2000s she was a well-established author and wrote prolifically in these decades. It was during this time that many of her works were adapted for stage and screen. she wrote the screenplay for the movie The Echo of Thunder, based on her book Thunderwith. She also wrote the libretto for Damascus, a Rooming House which was performed as part of an opera Australia workshop in 1998. This was followed up by the libretti for Grandma’s Shoes (2000) and Sky Sash So Blue, which was performed in 2004 in Alabama, USA. Libby also diversified by writing play scripts for several books, including Over the Moon, The Tram to Bondi Beach and Georgiana: Woman of Flowers. As computers became a part of children’s lives, Libby created three CD ROM stories with interactive games and quizzes - Weirdstop (2003), Coolstop (2004) and Wonderstop (2006).

Libby’s passion for poetry is reflected in many of her works. She has had poems published in newspapers, journals and anthologies (some of which she edited). In 1990 she wrote The Maroubra Cycle; a Journey around Childhood which became performance poetry. She was commissioned by the Australian Broadcasting Commission (ABC) to edit a poetry book for children. In 2010 ABC published The ABC Book of Australian Poetry: A Treasury of Poems for Children. In 2015 she presented a radio series about six Australian poets. She also scripted, in 2016, three seven minute documentaries on the Australian poets Dorothea Mackellar, CJ Dennis and Henry Lawson for the State Library of New South Wales.

Libby has achieved numerous awards, both personal and for specific books. In 1994 she was an Australia Day Ambassador. She became, in 2012, a National Ambassador for Reading. A large number of Libby’s books and associated works have been nominated for and won awards in Australia and overseas. There are some stand-out awards. In 1994 she and illustrator Gregory Rogers were the winners of the Kate Greenaway Medal in the UK for the book, Way Home. In 2001, she won the AWGIE (Australian Writers’ Guild) award for theatre for young people for her adaption of Grandma’s Shoes. In 2003 she won the AIMIA (Australian Interactive Media Industry Association) award for best children’s product for Weirdstop. In 2017, she was awarded the Asher Literary Award for A Soldier, a Dog and a Boy. This award is made to a woman writer on the theme of peace.

She has been the recipient of several awards for her services to Australian children's literature. In 2001 she was awarded the Centenary Medal by the Dept of the Prime Minister and Cabinet for service to Australian society in writing for theatre for young people. In 2014 she was awarded The Alice Award by The Society of Women Writers NSW for distinguished and long-term contribution to Australian literature. In 2020, she was the recipient of the CBCA Lady Cutler Award for Distinguished Service to Children's Literature and in 2022 she was the recipient of the Australian Book Industry Award (ABIA), The Pixie O'Harris, which recognises excellence and dedication to children's literature. These awards have involved Libby travelling for decades around Australia, particularly in rural areas, talking about Australian literature and especially children's literature. She has also spoken at many conferences and festivals in Australia and overseas.

She has had numerous short stories published in journals and anthologies. Many of her books have also been translated and published internationally.
